

The Angel of Marye's Heights

BATTLE FOR FREDERICKSBURG

"Winter Encampment and Battle In the Streets"

Union sharpshooters fired their muskets at a lone Confederate soldier, until the command "cease fire" was heard. Do not shoot that man -- he is too brave to die! Sergeant Richard Kirkland crawled among the enemy wounded giving water and aid till he ran out of water. "The Angel of Marye's Heights" returned to the protection of the stone wall, the sunken road, and his post.

Experience the Battle for Marye's Heights with the reenactment of Sergeant Kirkland's heroic act of Christ-like compassion and sacrifice during one of America's costliest battles of the Civil War.
